

Click here to print

MailOnline

California Highway Patrol settles with family for $2.37m over gruesome leaked photos of girl, 18, killed in crash

By Daily Mail Reporter

Last updated at 1:54 AM on 1st February 2012

The family of an Orange County teen killed in a 2006 car accident has reached a $2.37million settlement in a lawsuit against the California Highway Patrol over graphic crash photos that were leaked by the agency.

The photos, taken by CHP investigators at the crash site, show 18-year-old Nicole 'Nikki' Catsouras maimed and nearly decapitated in her father's mangled Porsche.

Pictures of the gruesome scene, never intended for public release, were leaked by two highway patrol dispatchers and quickly spread online.

Tragic: Nicole 'Nikki' Catsouras' maimed and nearly decapitated body was photographed by California Highway Patrol dispatchers, and quickly spread online

The LA Times originally reported the settlement.

Keith Bremer, an attorney for the Ladera Ranch family, told the newspaper: 'This has been a long journey.' The family, through Bremer, declined to comment on Monday.

As part of the settlement, Bremer said the CHP agreed to cooperate with the family in fighting to remove the images that can still be found on the Internet. No other details were revealed.

Gone too soon: Catsouras crashed after taking her father's car without permission

An Orange County Superior Court judge initially dismissed the family's lawsuit, concluding that the agency had not breached any legal duty to the family. At the time, the law did not recognize the right of family members to sue for invasion of privacy involving photos of the dead.

In 2010, the 4th District Court of Appeal reversed the decision, ruling that surviving family members have a right to sue for invasion of privacy in such cases.

Catsouras crashed after taking her father's car without permission, accelerating to speeds above 100mph on State Route 241 in south Orange County. She clipped another car and slammed into a toll booth.

The young woman was so badly disfigured her family hadn't been allowed to see her body after the crash, but the photos began proliferating on the Internet, appearing on thousands of websites.

On many of the sites, Catsouras was dubbed 'Porsche girl' and mocked as a spoiled rich girl who deserved to die. Anonymous taunting messages were also sent to the family's home.

Dangerous: Catsouras accelerated to speeds above 100mph on State Route 241 in south Orange County (pictured)

Over the years, the family has gone through extended efforts to find ways to remove the photos. But as soon as the images were taken down on some sites, they would sprout up elsewhere.

In a statement from their attorney, the family said it hopes this case will help others who get caught up in such nightmares. And for the Catsouras family, the settlement might finally allow them some closure.

'I think they can finally put this chapter behind them,' Bremer told the Times.

Comments (1)

Newest Oldest
Best rated
Worst rated

View all

Such a beautiful girl. What a loss.. :(

- camilles mommy, Corpus Christi, Tx, 01/2/2012 03:30

Click to rate __ Rating 2

Report abuse

The views expressed in the contents above are those of our users and do not necessarily reflect the views of MailOnline.

Your Free 2012
Horoscope

Find out what's ahead in your life
Shockingly
Accurate
Predictions
Life-Answers.com/H...

Astrology & Numerology

Free Reading; New
Astrological Tuning
Frequencies
<http://www.mind-syn...>

Free Horoscopes Daily

Daily Horoscopes
all in One Toolbar.
Get them today
Absolutely Free.
freedailyhoroscope....

Daily Horoscopes

See All Daily
Horoscopes Great
Deals On Great Brands.
www.Gifts.com

Find this story at www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-2094689/Nicole-Nikki-Catsouras-California-Highway-Patrol-settles-family-2-37m-gruesome-leaked-photos.html

Published by Associated Newspapers Ltd

Part of the Daily Mail, The Mail on Sunday & Metro Media Group

GlamEntertainment

© Associated Newspapers Ltd